

In this talk we present the new idea of combining the method of fundamental solutions and the method of particular solutions to solve Cauchy problems of Poisson equation. The main idea is to approximate the solution of the Cauchy problems by using fundamental solutions and radial basis functions. Numerical examples for 2D and 3D show that the new proposed method is accurate and efficient.